request the pleasure of your company at a

on the occasion of the 5th Annual Conference of the European Political Science Association on Friday, 26th of July 2015, at 8.00 p.M.at the City Hall of Vienna

Welcome address:

Omar Al-Rawi, Member of the Provincial Parliament and the Vienna City Council

Entrance: 1010 Vienna, Lichtenfelsgasse 2

Vienna’s townhall is one of the city’s great neo-gothic buildings, finished in 1883. The building occupies nearly 14,000 square meters of the former Parade Ground. Weather permitting, the Empfang der Stadt Wien will take place in the arcaded courtyard in the centre of the building, which is the largest of the townhall’s seven courtyards.

Please take your EPSA nametag to the townhall. Food and drinks are being served.

The reception is co-sponsored by the mayor of the city of Vienna, the European Political Science Association, and the EPSA’s journal Political Science Research and Methods.

d) Naschmarkt

Wikipedia: The Naschmarkt is Vienna's most popular market. Located at the Wienzeile over the Wien River, it is about 1.5 kilometres (0.93 mi) long. The Naschmarkt has existed since the 16th century when mainly milk bottles were sold (as milk bottles were made out of ash (wood from an ash tree), "Asch" (German for "ash") led to the name "Aschenmarkt"). From 1793 onwards, all fruits and vegetables brought to Vienna with carts had to be sold there, while goods arriving on the Danube were sold elsewhere. Nowadays, one can buy fresh fruit and vegetables from around the world, exotic herbs, cheese, baked goods such as bread, kaiser rolls, and torte, meats, and seafood. There are also many small restaurants which offer e.g. sushi, kebab, seafood, traditional Viennese food such as Kaiserschmarrn or Palatschinken (compares to rolled up crepes) and stalls which offer clothes and accessories. Since 1977, the market extends further along the Wienzeile to an adjacent area every Saturday, when a flea market takes place there. The atmosphere of the Naschmarkt is famous far beyond the borders of Vienna, and large numbers of tourists visit the market every year. Naschmarkt is on U4 between Schönbrunn and town center.
